

Seneca Morning Gratitude Prayer

I say good morning Creator; thank you for being. Thank You for listening. Thank you for hearing me. A million, million times thank you. Your being allows my being and I am grateful.

I say good morning Mother Earth; thank you for being. Thank You for listening. Thank you for hearing me. A million, million times thank you. Your being allows my being and I am grateful.

I say good morning to the East; thank you for being. Thank You for listening. Thank you for hearing me. A million, million times thank you. Your being allows my being and I am grateful.

I say good morning to the South; thank you for being. Thank You for listening. Thank you for hearing me. A million, million times thank you. Your being allows my being and I am grateful.

I say good morning to the West; thank you for being. Thank You for listening. Thank you for hearing me. A million, million times thank you. Your being allows my being and I am grateful.

I say good morning to the North; thank you for being. Thank You for listening. Thank you for hearing me. A million, million times thank you. Your being allows my being and I am grateful.

I say good morning to all my relations (the standing people, the two legged and four legged relatives, the winged and finned ones, the creeping crawling creatures, the rock and mineral people and all the elementals, and the celestial beings). Thank you for being. Thank You for listening. Thank you for hearing me. A million, million times thank you. Your being allows my being and I am grateful.

I say good morning to my own being; thank you for being. Thank You for listening. Thank you for hearing me. A million, million times thank you. Your being allows my being and I am grateful.
